PROF. SUMNER

ON

INDEPENDENCE IN VOTING.

A Dispassionate Estimate of the Two Candidates.

Why Prof. Sumner of Yale College cannot support the Republican nomination—Samuel J. Tilden's Government.

supleness and activity. Mr. Hayes seems to be the creature of the machine, and to have no other public claim to the Presidency. He must feel that his selection is arbitrary, that he has everything yet to do to justify public confidence that he is the recipient of an "honor." He cannot act with the assumed independence of a man who has advanced by well-earned steps, to whom the Presidency comes as the highest trust at the end of a career, to whom it is less an honor than a recognition and a concession.

Mr. Tilden's nomination was opposed by all the worst elements of his party, and was supported by as honest, pure and intelligent men as ever led in any political convention in this country. They were many of them young men, representing the hope, strength, faith and purpose of the younger half of this generation, to which I turned long ago with all my confidence for the national future.

The question of the currency, to me, stands before any other. It appears to me that Mr. Tilden has shown more correct, detailed, statesmanlike knowledge of the evil, the remedy and the process of cure than any other public man who is eligible.

I am, of course, utterly opposed to the repeal of the Resumption Act or any part of it, and I disapprove of any concession on that point, in form or substance, by Mr. Tilden or anybody else.

I put next in this canvas the matter of administrative reform. Mr. Tilden has been Governor of the State which has led in the demoralization of our politics since the beginning of the century.

He has had the hardest position for beginning reform, perhaps, which there is in the Union. He has made the only positive and successful steps toward it, at the risk of his own political fortunes, which I know of in the country.

The newspaper exposures of the Tweed Ring have made no more impression on that body than the patterning of rain on the hide of a rhinoceros, and the members of the Ring would to-day have been flaunting their stolen wealth in the face of the public, if Mr. Tilden had not reduced their guilt to an arithmetic demonstration, available to a court of law.

The Canal Ring is known to everybody.

I have in mind, however, not only these "reform" efforts, but also administrative reform.

I will take a single case which floated in a paragraph through the newspapers, occasioning, so far as I ever saw, very little attention, but which had an immense effect on my mind, and which I have often in private conversation.

It was stated that the politicians of the South were bitterly hostile to Governor Tilden. The reasons were given, two in number: 1. Mr. Tilden had refused to remove the Republican superintendent of the asylum at Elkhorn in order to appoint a Democrat. 2. Mr. Tilden had removed, for cause, the Corporation Counsel of Elmira, who was a Democrat, although the Common Council of that city was Republican, and could elect a Republican successor. These were good grounds for the opposition of the politicians, but they were an imperative demand on me, if I was an "Independent," and meant what I had been talking about for years, to give him my full, hearty, and efficient support if I ever came in my way.

I know that the soft-money Democrats have claimed that Mr. Tilden has more knowledge, ability, skill and will, to do what we want to see done in politics than Mr. Hayes. Nevertheless, I am called upon to bind or plow myself in any way, upon myself to take my course, which may, upon further information or reflection, seem best. However the election may result, I shall be guided in my relations to the next Administration entirely by the performances of my friends in the election of Tilden.

If, then, a decision is forced upon me, I simply judge, on all the information I possess, that Mr. Tilden is the best man to be elected.

I cannot get an expression of opinion which is single and simple from a party. I can only get that from a man. A party cannot have character, or conscience, or reputation.

I cannot repeat, nor endure punishment or disgrace. I know very well that we are in the habit of predicting all these things of parties, but I should think our experience had offered the fullest proof that we cannot properly predicate any of these things of a party, except in a broad half-metaphorical sense, under which all the sharpness and efficiency necessary to practical politics are lost. The proof is, at any rate, satisfactory to me.

I have no information other than what the newspapers have given us. From their story I do not see how any one can feel respect for the candidature of Gov. Hayes. It appears that Mr. Cameron was picked because some members of his delegation violated a vote as a unit, and he therefore refused to give the State a unit for their candidature at the decisive moment.

The Senatorial aspirants could not see the prize go to either one of them, and agreed only to split the machine, and to give it to Blaine. These two things combined gave it to Hayes.

I, at the time, expressed the opinion that this course of events, when one reflected that the business in hand was the selection of a chief magistrate of the nation, was a "farce." I did not then, and do not now, deny the possibility that Hayes may be the man for the crisis. I cannot deny the possibility that, if you shake up the names of eight million voters in a box, and draw one by lot, you may get the one out of the eight million who is best fitted for the Presidency, but we are assumed to be rational beings, making a selection on rational grounds, and I think we did ourselves little credit on that occasion in that point of view.

Some of the gentlemen there came home rejoicing and triumphing over the party machine. They defeated the machine in its first intention, but it doubled upon them with its well-known man, whose modesty prevented him from accepting the United States Senate.

I quote it as an instance of what seems to me wrong reasoning on these matters. If Gov. Hayes is such a man as is now claimed, it seems to me he is just the man we have needed in the Senate for the last few years, and, if he refused to go, he turned his back on the call of public duty.

I do not deny his right to refuse, although in general I hold it sound doctrine that a man of good health and independent fortune ought to serve the State when duly and honorably selected; but if Mr. Hayes was ever to be a candidate, he ought to have pursued a public career in the subordinate places which opened to him; he ought to have allowed us to see him in those places, and he ought to have made a record on which we could form a judgment to-day, and not be thrown on the say-so of his friends.

If he is to be elected, I shall certainly not prejudge him, nor allow any prejudice to rise in my mind; but when I look back on former cases in which the campaign enthusiasm has surrounded an unfitted man with a halo

The time has now come when the spirit of justice which animates the Northern people will require the expulsion from the Southern States of the hordes of rascals, black and white, who have substituted ruthless oppression and pilage for free government. — Jennings late editor New York Times.

CARL SCHMIDT IS REBURNED IN OHIO because he talks against the Administration, and Martin P. Townsend is sent away from Vermont because he talks in favor of the Administration. What then is the poor radical speaker to do.

For Sale Cheap, Hayes' note.
Promising reforms, indorsed by Mackey, Moses and Chamberlain of South Carolina, with references as to the "efficiency and economy" of business methods to Belknap, Robeson and Shepherd, and other well-known concerns.

Many reforms have been attempted by the Republican officials, which they would not have dared to enter upon, if their party had not been confronted BY A DEMOCRATIC HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES which had made exposures that compelled and enabled Republican officials to punish great wrongs. [GOVERNOR SEYMOUR'S LETTER.]

The Preventive Distress.
The present condition of the country is patent to all. Nearly all its industries are paralyzed, and the people who depend for their subsistence upon their daily employment are out of work, dispirited and starving. Factories are closed, and the hands which look to them for occupation are in a state of desperation. Capitalists are locking up their funds, and the country is deprived of their use because securities have been rendered unsafe.

Distress prevails everywhere, and, as Governor Tilden says in his Letter of Acceptance, "It has its principal cause in the enormous waste of capital occasioned by false policies of the Government. Those who are responsible for these false policies, now ask a renewal of their mischievous authority." But as Governor Tilden further remarks, in his statesmanlike documents, "The country will no longer accept shame. It has suffered enough from illusions."

JAMES H. PLATT, JR.

The people are getting really fastidious in their selection of candidates for the various elective offices. They discarded Mr. Orth, in Indiana, because he had a little of the soil of Venezuela adhering to his hands, and now the Virginians have signified their disapproval of the conduct of James H. Platt, Jr., because, some time ago, he wrote a letter reflecting upon the character of their representative, Mr. John Goode, and got another man to adopt the composition as his own. It is true that this letter contained nothing that was true, and was scandalously defamatory in its nature. This however, instead of causing an objection to the Hon. gentlemen as a candidate for Congress, ought to have raised him in the estimation of the electors.

It shows that he is a man of inventive genius, and this is one of the qualifications for an efficient congressional Representative, who will unreservedly give his support to the doctrines and measures of the Republican party—the party which was so judiciously managed the National business, so vigilantly guarded the National honor as to bring the country to its present proud and satisfactory condition. Mr. Goode is a Democrat, and the Democrats in the House, did nothing but let us into some of the secret methods by which the Republicans managed the public business, and take a trifle—some $30,000,000 from our public expenditure. Those are small matters compared with what was not accomplished by the Republicans, and we think the voters will do well to avail themselves of the diversified talents of the very honorable James H. Platt, Jr.,

This average Republican voter is at present in a musical mood. Did he, or did he not, is the burden of his song; have a piano, is its chorus.

Ardrie Works.

Editor Herald.

A brief notice of these works may not prove uninteresting to the working class of your readers, and I, finding an inclination to "look up," will speak my little piece. It is well known that Ardrie is but the ghost of his former self and proportions that under any management would be seemingly fair, are neglected. All the works are in ruins, furnaces, engine houses and machinery are numbered with the things of the past, no effort as yet made to rebuild or even care for them. The works, as they stand, form a very poor comment on their management for the past few years.

Mining operations are progressing slowly, the miners not working to any advantage to themselves or the company. Reason why, no encouragement. All supplies furnished them, powder, oil and blacksmith work are charged at exorbitant and unreasonable rates, all day labor is poorly paid and grudgingly furnished and the coal screened so heavily that but little is left to the miners. So it is no wonder that good miners leave here to go to the better managed mines of Smith, McHenry or Hamilton and live on half work there, rather than starve on full work here. The only man of any energy or enterprise connected with the present management of Ardrie is Dr. S. A. Jackson, and he, making a success with a well appointed store, cares little about the coal work, which is a "dead thing" financially speaking.

Every one in this county heartily wishes for the return of these works to the possession of their owners as it is well known that they will develop all the minerals and make this old hill blossom as a rose and add greatly to the riches of the country, but as it is, "They starve, in midst of nature's bounty, And in the loaded vineyard, die of thirst."

same time will have tendency to unite the Democrats north on Cooper by illuminating by their votes here that they are ignoring their former affiliations to the Republican party, at the same time it is a well defined fact, and truth that out north where they can accomplish something by their votes they will, to a man, support the Republican ticket for President in November. The Good Templars are very prevalent here but don't know of a Smith, vote in this district. I have the honor to represent both the Good Templars and Grangers. But at the same time I did not so understand the law by which I was admitted a member as to any way bind me to support its members or representatives for office politically. Some seems to so construe it. We should remember and reflect over the memorable year that passed on our national ticket Douglas—Breckenridge and Bell, we were sorely defeated and the consequences are known to the satisfaction of democrats I presume. Business at this point is good mess, Holbrook and Field are doing a very large business. And the farmers seem exultant over their crop prospects. Benj. Newton Epperson presented me with some of the largest sweet potatoes that I have seen for many years they look like pumpkins to a new eye man,—to the Squire I make my best law and tender thanks.

CONTEMPLATED MURDER.

We were aroused from sleep last night, 24th, by a knocking at our door when a young lady informed us that the negroes, living on the premises of Mr. Thos. Bell, Sr. were killing each other. White men arrived at the scene of action and found William Chapman of color, with his throat cut and in very bad plight. Chapman had attacked his step-sister, Paulina, with a very large rock, mashing the rock very much, and cutting an ugly scar on top of the girl's head. Chapman said he intended to kill her, and then suicide himself. So much for love in a cottage, as I am informed that she had jilted him, hence the intended murder. The parties were sent to Hartford to day for trial. We are having a nice shower of rain at this writing. More anon.

In Memoriam.

CENTERTOWN, KY., Sept. 18, 1876.
Editor Herald.

The hand of death has inflicted upon us a severer blow than usually falls upon a community, in the death of Mrs. NANCY ROWE, wife of Robert Rowe, one of our oldest and best citizens. After having her constitution considerably shattered by chills and fever, which have repeatedly attacked her during the twelve or fourteen months past, she died of an attack of bilious fever at half past 1 o'clock on Saturday morning, Sept. 16, aged 73 years.

Her life has been spent in our midst, and, without claiming anything like perfection for any mortal, we think that that life might be held up as a model for others.

Without implying that she lacked any amiable traits of character, it may be said that she had charity for those who thought or acted differently from her and patience to withstand the common annoyances of life. She was earnestly devoted to truth, and used every means to inculcate the minds of her children and friends with its principles. She had neither an ear for gossip, nor a tongue to repeat it. She was never called upon to know what she had said or done, as her part in any neighborhood broil. She took no part in such matters.

She lived a devoted member of the Baptist church—an earnest advocate of religion. Any Sunday visitor was almost sure of finding the Bible in her hands. During all her sickness she seemed perfectly resigned to the Divine will, never murmuring at her afflictions—always trying to soothe the minds of her husband and family by assurances that she was not suffering much.

The day before her death she threw her arms around her daughter's neck and with the thought of the near approach of death, exclaimed: "The Lord be praised." Her end was easy—without a struggle. By her request she was buried at Walton's Creek church, in a coffin which her husband had prepared for himself.

Commuting upon her life and death, we are forcibly reminded of the poet's words:

"Life is real, life is earnest,
And the grave is not its goal,
Dust thou art, to dust returnest,
Was not spoken of the soul."

NEIGHBORHOOD NOTES.

CORN cutting has begun.
The Episcopal Church at Paducah has resolved to call a pastor.

HENDERSON has a brewery that makes 820 kegs of beer per day.

THE Elizabethtown News has been purchased by H. H. McCarty, of Louisville.

PAUDUA News: The crop of corn is so good this year that the farmers will hardly know what to do with it.

PAUDUA News: Large quantities are being hauled to this market, where it commands from 85 cents to $1 00 per bushel.

THE Republicans will hold a convention in Madisonville, Oct. 5, to select a candidate for Congress in the Second District.

PARIS Kentuckian: Gen. W. T. Withership arrived on Monday, and a load of fine trotters East, sold at $600 to $800 per head.

UNION Local: Tobacco cutting has begun in earnest, in this county, and our farmers are jubilant over the fine prospects of a large yield.

THE Mayfield Monitor urges the building of a new jail, as no persons with any regard for his character as a man of energy will stay in the present abode more than twelve hours.

MANISVILLE Times: Chill pills,ague tonic and other hot and bitter medicines are now in demand. The pills are getting in their work in a very lively and vigorous manner.

THE Christian Sunday-school convention at Madisonville, last week, was well attended by delegates from nine counties. The next meeting will be held in Hopkinsville, next May.

A Mr. TICE, down in Graves county, is predicting the blowing of an ill-wind for the Republican party about November 7. The prophecy "hears upon its face the persuasive odor of its own probability."

THE number of hogsheads of tobacco of last year's crop put up in the various stemmerys in Henderson amounted to near 6,000. The capital invested in this business amounts to about $3,000,000.

HARRISBURG Observer and Reporter: Some parties from this and Shelby county, purchased during the last week in this and Boyle county, several hundred head of hogs for which they paid 62 cents.

MARYSVILLE Eagle: Wm. H. Durrell, of the Washington neighborhood, has lost more than fifty fat hogs from cholera. Col. Goggins has also lost several, and the farmers of that section are generally alarmed for stock.

BOWLING GREEN Pantagraph: We learn that there is more full ploughing going on in the Three Springs neighborhood than has been known for many years. That is a good indication of what the good people of that section intend to do.

RICHMOND Examiner: Mr. William M. Thomas, of Elliston, has a cow that has the new cattle disease that is appearing in some portions of the country. The tongue is affected, besides the head being diseased similar to distemper in horses.

MADISONVILLE Times: The trial of Long ended last Thursday. The case excited considerable interest. A great many witnesses were examined. The defense was represented by Messrs. Bradley, Waddill and Pratt, and the prosecution was conducted by Messrs. Talton and Arnold. The case was tried before Judges Sale and Taliferro, who after hearing the arguments and testimony, decided Long's offense to be manslaughter and fixed his bail at the very low figure of $500, which Long gave, and is now at liberty.

THE HERALD.

WEDNESDAY, -- SEP. 27, 1876.

Job work of every description done with business and dispatch, at city prices. We have a full line of job types, and solicit the patronage of the business community.

General Local News,

NEWSPAPER advertising is a permanent addition to the reputation of the goods advertised, because it is a permanent influence always at work in their interest.

We call special attention to the column of "Business Locals," from our Merchants and business men. Persons wishing to buy, will always find it to their interest to purchase of the most liberal men.

Mr. THOS. L. DAVIS, brought two sweet potatoes to town that were really "immense." Although not as large as some we have seen but for exterior beauty excel all. They were of the early Moody species.

MR. W. H. PERKINS and wife, Owensboro, Ky., were in town last week, visiting the family of Wm. H. Moore.

MR. CLAYTON WALLACE, who has been reading medicine at this place for some time past, left last week for Philadelphia, to attend Jefferson Medical College.

Mrs. LIZZIE WALKER, daughter of Hon. E. D. Walker of this place, left yesterday morning, to attend school in Philadelphia.

The readers of this paper will find in another column the advertisement of Dr. G. W. Priest, a Dentist of Louisville, Ky. The Dr. is graduate of Medicine and also of Dental Surgery—with 22 years' experience and all operations entrusted to his care will be faithfully performed.

The case of the Commonwealth against William Embry for the killing of Amos Morris will be tried on Friday next at Frankfort. Mr. Embry has surrendered himself by advice of his counsel, Messrs. Walker & Hubbard. Mr. Embry has heretofore borne a good character and his friends are confident of an acquittal. We forbear expressing an opinion and are content to let the law decide.

Our friend L. Rosenberg returned home from a Centennial trip last Monday. He brought with him from the Quaker city a keepsake by which to remember his Centennial visit. The gift is a rare one and our friend proposes to care for it till next Centennial if he should live so long and the precious object does not perish. For explanation read marriage notice.

HORNS is still silent in the matter of big tobacco. Mr. Jas. M. Pennington brought to town the other day a leaf of tobacco that measured forty-one and a half inches in length, thirty-one and a half inches in width, and weight thirteen ounces. We call upon our exchanges to beat this if they can.—Mad. Times, 20th.

Here you are, Mr. Jas. B. Rowan, brought us a leaf of Tobacco, "Blue Prior," that measured twenty-nine inches, by fifty-one long.

Mendel & Kahn.

The above enterprising firm of Louisville, Ky., are receiving one of the largest stocks of goods ever brought to this part of the world. Mr. Mendel has been absent for several weeks purchasing the stock. He has bought them almost exclusively for cash and hence has bought them at the lowest possible rate and proposes to sell them the same way. Their stock consists of clothing, boots and shoes, hats and caps, dry goods of any and every description, dress goods in great variety, hardware, queensware, groceries, and in short anything you want. Call and give them a fair trial before buying elsewhere.

Mrs. MARY NEWTON, of this county sent us a Sweet Potato which weighed 42 pounds, grown on the farm of Mr. BENJ. Newton, near Buford. We were told that this was not selected, but was merely a sample.

"It is the quantity eaten that gives strength, life, blood and health. It is the thorough digestion of the food taken, let it be much or little. Therefore, do not stimulate up the stomach to crave food, but rather assist digestion after eating, by taking Simmons' Liver Regulator.

We call the attention to the advertisement of Simmons' Liver Regulator, which appears in the paper to-day. This standard remedy does not deserve to be classed with the many "patent" nostrums so liberally advertised throughout the country. It is one of the very best preparations of its kind in use; and is recommended by the regular practitioners of medicine. It has a large sale in the city, and can be found in all our drug stores, a bottle or package should be found in every family, as its judicious use is almost certain to prevent a bilious attack if taken when the symptoms first show themselves."

Annual Conference of the (Col.) M. E. Church.

An interesting series of meetings have been held here for one week of the above denominations. Several additions have been made to the church and good feelings have prevailed generally. There were many ministers from abroad in attendance, some very eloquent. We have not been able to get the appointments for the ensuing year, but will give, in our next all that can interest that portion of our readers.

The matrimonial market seems, from the following, to be on the increase, whether the falling barometer has any influence in this particular, we have not been advised. But the record stands thus:

Jno. Calloway and Mrs. Elizabeth Langley.

Miles Wright and Mrs. Nancy E. Bush.

Layayette J. Rodgers and Miss Zelma S. Webb.

I. C. Wakeland and Miss Annie J. Hines.

Warren L. Maddox and Miss Martha J. Boswell.

Grand Democratic Demonstration at Hartford, Monday, October 2nd 1876

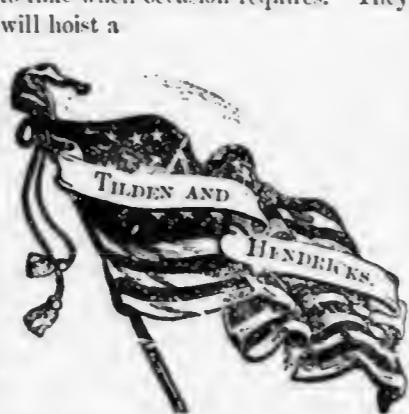

A Tilden and Hendricks Banner will be thrown to the breeze at a height of 125 feet.

This will be the grandest demonstration ever held in the county. Old men, young men, Ladies, boys and girls, everybody come out.

Old Cromwell to the Front.

The Democrats of Cromwell district are true as steel, and always come to time when occasion requires. They will hoist a Tuesday, October the 3d, 1876. Hon. W. T. Ellis, Hon. J. A. McKenzie, Hon. J. Proctor Knott, Hon. E. D. Walker, Hon. H. D. McHenry and other prominent speakers have been invited, and some or all of them will be on hand to discuss the political issues of the day. We want the masses of the people to turn out and hear these gentlemen on our national political issues.

ALL ABOARD

The Democrats of Beaver Dam and vicinity are wide-awake and up to snuff. They will fling to the breeze on Saturday the 30th inst. a beautiful Tilden and Hendricks
